

by R. M. Ballantyne

Black Ivory

By R. M. Ballantyne

(1825 – 1894)

Black Ivory

A shipwreck leaves the son of the charterer of the sinking ship, and a seaman friend of his, alone on the east coast of Africa, where Arab and Portuguese slave traders are still carrying out their evil trade, despite the great efforts of patrolling British warships to limit it and free the unfortunates. Our heroes encounter a slave trader but manage to get to Zanzibar where they pick up some funds and venture into the interior of Africa. This book will open your eyes to what really went on. At the time of writing, slave-dealing on the west coast of Africa was, due to the efforts of the British, almost extinct, but this was not the case on the east coast.

Cover Image Source:
http://ia350628.us.archive.org/2/items/captaincanotort01canogoog/captaincanotort01canogoog_tif.zipTotal
Running Time: 9:36:07
Read by Tom Weiss

Black Ivory

by R. M. Ballantyne